Lalley Light and Power
Saves by Preventing Fire

Lalley Light is complete unit—engine and generator—with 11 cell storage battery. It supplies ample electricity for lights, water pump, washing machine, sweeper, etc.

Every time an oil lamp is lighted in your home—every time a lantern is carried into the barn—there is danger of fire. With Lalley Light, there is no such danger. No matches. No oil. No open flame. No upset lantern.

Read how Lalley would have saved a $1,500 fire.

W. H. Becker, Pinebrook, Iowa, says:

"I believe any Lalley Light owner would not do without it for twice what it cost. I had a $1,500 fire caused by coal oil lamp in 1917, which would not have happened had my Lalley Electric Light and which now would have paid for itself. Lalley Light."

C. E. Joos, Tabor, Ky., says Lalley is much safer, especially in the barn, where lanterns are ordinarily used.

H. S. Netz, Grimesville, Ky., says the same; and John Dry, Harrodsburg, Ky., says he "never realized what a risk we were taking by using coal oil lamps and lanterns around the house and barn."

"Lalley does away with the danger of fire from lanterns in the hands of hired men," says A. E. Coker, Orum, Neb., and feels safer with his Lalley plant.

Lalley Light is the best fire insurance you can have, because it removes entirely the danger and the possibility of fire.

Come in and see the Lalley or telephone us to bring it out to you.

DEMAND FOR LABOR EXCEEDS THE SUPPLY

Mr Charles Ader, in charge of the employment bureau here, located in the Y. M. C. A. building, reports that altho every day he finds jobs for several seekers of employment, the demand for labor in the shops, mills and other industrial enterprises still exceeds the supply. There is also a shortage, he says, of those seeking occupations, and often work.

Practically all of the applicants, according to Mr. Ader, are well satisfied with the places that the employment bureau secures for them and most of them stick on the job. A few, however, return to ask for a change.

BUNCOMBE WOMAN UNABLE TO GET PERMIT FOR PISTOL

Asheville, June 26.—Females of Buncombe county can not secure permits to buy pistols and other firearms in this county, John H. Cathey, clerk of superior court, declared today in the issuing of permits for this in the case of a woman who stated that her husband would not come for the permit and she decided to call for it herself. She admitted, however, that they had had trouble in one occasion and when this statement was made the clerk absolutely refused to grant the permit under any condition. He stated that hereafter he would not do this as a policy.
